Who It Is For

-  Home-based businesses with 1-4 users
-  Need color prints and scanning
-  Require wireless connectivity
-  Want reliable, long-lasting performance
-  Need US-based customer support

Who It Is Not For

-  Large offices with high-volume needs
-  Prefer laser printers for durability
-  Require mobile printing from tablets
-  Need advanced security features
-  Have limited desk space for bulky printers

Trade Offs to Consider

-  Slower color print speed than some models
-  Smaller paper capacity than office printers
-  No automatic document feeder
-  Higher upfront cost than basic models
-  Less eco-friendly than laser printers
-  No built-in Ethernet port

How It Compares

- Competes with similar wireless all-in-ones
- Less durable than laser printers
- Better for home use than office models
- More expensive than basic printers
- Easier to set up than networked devices
- Fewer advanced security options

Choose This If...
