Who It Is For

-  Businesses printing brochures and flyers
-  Marketing teams creating point-of-sale materials
-  Event planners needing high-impact signage
-  In-house printers with inkjet equipment

Who It Is Not For

-  Users requiring matte finish for documents
-  Small businesses with low-volume printing
-  Laser printer users needing toner-compatible paper
-  Organizations prioritizing eco-friendly materials

Trade Offs to Consider

- Higher cost than standard paper stock
- Limited to inkjet printer compatibility
- Requires careful handling to avoid smudging
- Not suitable for high-speed commercial printing

How It Compares

- Better than standard paper for glossy finishes
- Less durable than matte alternatives for documents
- More expensive than laser printer paper
- Superior to eco-friendly options for print quality

Choose This If...

- ✓ Need glossy prints for marketing materials
- ✓ Use inkjet printers for professional output
- ✓ Print high-quality brochures and flyers
- ✓ Require premium paper for branded collateral

✗ Skip This If...

- ✗ Prefers matte finish for documents
- ✗ Use laser printers for toner compatibility
- ✗ Have low-volume printing needs
- ✗ Prioritize sustainability over print quality
