Who It Is For

---

- ✓ Home users printing personal documents
- ✓ Families creating school projects
- ✓ Small offices with low-volume needs
- ✓ Students printing reports and notes

Who It Is Not For

---

- ✗ Businesses requiring high-volume printing
- ✗ Users needing automatic duplex printing
- ✗ Those prioritizing ultra-fast print speeds
- ✗ Photographers requiring professional-grade output

Trade Offs to Consider

---

- Limited paper capacity compared to office printers
- Requires subscription for ongoing ink supply
- No built-in automatic document feeder
- Lower print speed than laser printers

Users Say

● POSITIVES

- ✓ Easy to set up and use with the HP app
- ✓ Good value for basic home printing needs
- ✓ Clear, sharp text for everyday documents

● COMPLAINTS

- ⚠ Ink costs add up over time
- ⚠ Limited paper tray capacity for large jobs
- ⚠ No advanced photo printing features

How It Compares

---

- Versus higher-end models:
Lower print speed and resolution
- Versus dedicated printers:
Fewer specialized functions
- Versus laser printers: Slower black-and-white output
- Versus multifunction devices:
No fax capability

Choose This If...

---

- ✓ You need basic home printing with wireless access
- ✓ You want all-in-one functionality in a compact form
- ✓ You're okay with subscription-based ink costs
- ✓ You prioritize ease of use over advanced features

✗ Skip This If...

- ✗ You require high-volume or 24/7 printing
- ✗ You need professional-grade photo output
- ✗ You want automatic duplex printing
- ✗ You prefer laser printer reliability
