- ✓ Home users producing high-quality reports

Who It Is Not For

- ✗ Users requiring glossy finish papers
- ✗ Printers needing specialty paper weights
- ✗ High-volume commercial print shops
- ✗ Those needing archival-grade materials

Trade Offs to Consider

---

- Matte finish may show fingerprints
- Heavier weight increases shipping costs
- Limited color vibrancy compared to glossy
- Not suitable for wet-erase applications

Users Say

---

● POSITIVES

- ✓ Excellent for professional-looking brochures
- ✓ Prints stay smudge-free for longer
- ✓ Works well with laser printers for sharp text

● COMPLAINTS

- ⚠ Not ideal for color-intensive graphics
- ⚠ Higher price than standard copy paper
- ⚠ Limited availability in some regions

How It Compares

- Better than standard copy paper for durability
- Less vibrant than glossy finish papers
- More expensive than regular printer paper
- Suitable for laser printers but not toner-based

Choose This If...

- ✓ Need matte finish for professional documents
- ✓ Printing marketing materials with sharp text
